

The Program

The Children's Program is a nontherapeutic program designed solely for children. The purpose of the program is to provide children with an understanding of if and why their family dynamics may be changing and how they fit into this change.

The environment allows for a positive setting where children can process feelings of change that are involved during parents' divorce and/or separation period, and changes in custody, through interactive discussions with peers.

The program shall consist of two sessions and include consideration of: (i) the meaning of divorce; (ii) the emotional impact on children and parents; (iii) changes in the parent-child relationship; (iv) coping strategies, and (v) helping children adjust to family change.
